The Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) had produced the accused before the court earlier today.

Earlier, the Director General (DG) of the National Testing Agency (NTA), Abhishek Singh, on May 21 appeared before a Parliamentary committee to provide a detailed briefing on the NEET-UG paper leak and the steps being taken to reform the examination process.

Sources said the standing committee members asked about the NEET-UG paper leak and ways to make the NTA test process more robust. They asked about the computer-based test infrastructure, frequency, duration of test and other parameters, such as NEET-UG, one of India's most important entrance examinations, shifts to computer-based testing from next year.

The Union Education Ministry has ordered strengthened security measures for the upcoming re-examination scheduled on June 21. Officials have also indicated that NEET-UG will be conducted in computer-based test (CBT) mode from next year to prevent such irregularities.

Union Minister Piyush Goyal criticises Rahul Gandhi's remarks against PM Modi

New Delhi: Senior BJP Leader and Union Minister Piyush Goyal today accused Congress leader Rahul Gandhi of creating a serious plot to spread anarchy in the nation.

In a social media post, he said that Mr Gandhi's statement against Prime Minister Narendra Modi points towards a major conspiracy by the Congress party, along with all opposition parties.

Mr Goyal alleged that the Congress Party's true intentions are to defame the country, insult constitutional institutions, and go abroad to appeal to foreign powers to interfere in India's internal affairs.

The Union Minister stated that the citizens of the country are wise and have a clear understanding of Rahul Gandhi and the opposition parties that are acting against the nation's interests.

He said that the public has repeatedly given resounding responses to these people. Mr Goyal added that the INDI alliance's conspiracy will never succeed.

WFI respects Delhi HC order, to allow Vinesh to compete in trials; Asiad participation still uncertain: Sources

New Delhi: Wrestling Federation of India (WFI) will not challenge the Delhi High Court's order permitting Vinesh Phogat to participate in the Asian Games 2026 selection trials, federation sources confirmed on Sunday.

The development comes a day after the Delhi High Court directed the WFI to allow the Olympian and two-time World Championships medallist to compete in the trials, which are scheduled for May 30 and 31 in New Delhi.

The court also ordered that the entire selection process be video-recorded and monitored by independent observers from the Sports Authority of India (SAI) and the Indian Olympic Association (IOA).

Confirming the federation's stance following the ruling, WFI sources said the body would comply with the court's directions. "We respect the court order and the WFI will not challenge the decision. Let her (Vinesh Phogat) compete in the trials," WFI sources told IANS.

However, the federation indicated that logistical complications could arise even if Phogat qualifies through the trials, as the list of participants for the competition had already been sent to Japan earlier this month.

Asked about the possibility of Phogat making the final squad if she wins the trials, the sources added, "It is not in our hands now. If, by any chance, we manage to include her as an iconic player, she will have to compete in the 50kg category." While granting interim relief to Phogat, the Delhi High Court strongly criticised the WFI's selection framework and observed that motherhood could not be used as a basis to exclude female athletes from professional opportunities.

A Division Bench headed by Chief Justice Devendra Kumar

Upadhyaya held that the federation's policy failed to adequately account for Phogat's maternity-related break and post-partum recovery period, which overlapped with the qualifying competitions listed under the eligibility criteria. "Motherhood must be viewed as a natural and deeply significant aspect of life that deserves accommodation and institutional sensitivity. Therefore, the law must ensure that motherhood does not become a ground for exclusion or marginalisation of female athletes such as the appellant," the court observed.

The Bench further noted that preventing Phogat from participating in the trials would render her pending writ petition meaningless, adding that allowing her to compete was necessary "in the interest of sport and justice."

The court also criticised the language used by the WFI in a show-cause notice issued to the wrestler earlier this month, particularly references to her disqualification from the Paris Olympics final after failing the weigh-in.

The Bench described the federation's remarks calling the incident a "national embarrassment" as "deplorable" and "vindictive." Phogat had challenged the federation's Asian Games selection policy issued in February, along with a subsequent circular and show-cause notice, arguing that she had been unfairly excluded despite informing both international and domestic authorities about her maternity-related sabbatical.

During the hearings, the WFI maintained that the policy applied uniformly to all wrestlers and that no exemptions could be made.

The court, however, noted that earlier federation guidelines had allowed "iconic players" to compete in selection trials even without meeting standard eligibility conditions.

Panchayat Polls to Be a Major Political Test for BJP and BJD in Odisha

Sambalpur-23/05 (DMS) : Political activity in Odisha is gathering momentum as major parties begin strategizing for the crucial Panchayat elections scheduled for 2027. The rural polls are expected to serve as the biggest political test before the 2029 Assembly elections and could significantly influence the state's political landscape.

For the ruling Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), which came to power in Odisha for the first time in 2024 by ending the 24-year rule of the Biju Janata Dal (BJD), the Panchayat elections will be a key indicator of whether its Assembly victory reflected a lasting political shift, a wave of anti-incumbency against the previous government, or a broader appeal based on Odia identity and governance promises.

On the other hand, the Panchayat polls will offer the BJD an opportunity to demonstrate whether it still retains its formidable grassroots strength. A strong performance could revive the party's political momentum and reaffirm its relevance at the village level. However, questions remain about who will lead the party's electoral campaign and organizational revival in the post-defeat period.

Panchayat elections in Odisha have traditionally been viewed as the most accurate measure of a party's grassroots influence. The 2022 Panchayat election results highlighted BJD's dominance, with the party winning 766 of the 852 Zilla Parishad seats. BJP secured only 42 seats, while Congress won 37. The overwhelming victory underscored BJD's deep organizational network across rural Odisha.

Political analysts believe BJP must significantly improve its rural performance in 2027 to prove that its 2024 Assembly triumph was not solely driven by public dissatisfaction with the previous government. The party will seek to showcase the impact of the development and welfare initiatives implemented under the government led by Chief Minister Mohan Charan Majhi.

Observers also argue that public resentment against the growing influence of former bureaucrat V. K. Pandian played a significant role in BJP's 2024 electoral success. With Pandian no longer expected to be a factor in future elections, the responsibility for mobilizing voters is likely to fall on party leaders, MPs, MLAs, and local organizational structures.

Nearly two years into BJP's tenure, the government has implemented several welfare initiatives, including the women-focused Subhadra Yojana. However, concerns persist over the party's organizational reach at the grassroots level. Political observers point to gaps between the government, the party, and its organizational machinery. In many rural and urban areas, leaders and networks associated with the previous BJD regime are still believed to wield considerable influence, leading to frustration among BJP workers who had expected greater participation after the change in power.

Former Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik continues to enjoy significant popularity, particularly in rural Odisha. Despite its defeat in 2024, BJD's local organizational structure remains largely intact and active. The party is expected to rely heavily on this network as it seeks to regain political ground.

With both BJP and BJD preparing for a high-stakes contest, the 2027 Panchayat elections are widely expected to become a defining moment in Odisha politics. The results will serve as a political report card for the Mohan Majhi government while also testing the organizational strength, public support, and future prospects of both major parties ahead of the 2029 Assembly elections.

“Patent Medicine” for Drunkards! Surprise Raids by Administration

Paradip: 23/05 - After District Collector Mr. J. Sonal and Superintendent of Police (SP) Mr. Ankit Kumar Verma joined duty in Jagatsinghpur district, the law and order situation across the district has reportedly improved significantly. Illegal trade in intoxicants had been flourishing in various parts of the district, but now liquor, ganja, and drug mafias, along with those illegally occupying government land, have come under fear. Even youths and adults consuming ganja and drugs are now afraid to do so openly in public places. At present, the focus of these two tough officers is on Paradip, the industrial port town of the district. Last month, after IPS officer Mr. Babu Rao Mane took charge as Additional SP, several long-running illegal ganja outlets and illicit liquor dens operating in different parts of Paradip were shut down under the direction of the District Collector and SP. Even the bhang and ganja stalls operating for decades near the Shani temple established by port employees in front of Paradip Model Police Station were permanently closed. Raids are also continuing in other locations.

According to reports, the 60-year-old Bijaya Market area of Paradip has more than seven government-authorized open and sealed liquor shops that have existed since the establishment of the port. Day and night, people speaking different languages openly consume alcohol around these liquor shops, in nearby corners, and even in open spaces without regard for society, especially women. Drunken individuals often create disturbances and unpleasant situations.

As Paradip is one of India's major commercial hubs, thousands of outsiders visit the town daily. Many quickly buy liquor bottles, water bottles, and plastic glasses, consume alcohol on the spot, and leave immediately. This practice has continued since the early days of the port. Many administrative officers have come and gone, but no one seriously addressed the issue. Though everyone knows the reasons behind it, it is said that they cannot be openly written about. However, in an attempt to stop this long-standing practice, Jagatsinghpur District Collector J. Sonal and SP Ankit Verma conducted a sudden raid in the Bijaya Market area last Friday evening. Late into the night, checking and raids continued across Paradip.

Complaints had long been received regarding people openly drinking near liquor shops and creating disturbances, and now the administration has taken strict action. During the surprise raids, police detained several individuals who were allegedly consuming alcohol on roadsides and creating nuisance, and took them to the police station. The District Collector and SP personally toured various locations and reviewed the situation. It is learned that in the coming days, such raids will become more intense to curb intoxication-related activities and open drinking. Strict action will also be taken against drunk and drive persons. While the general public has welcomed this action by the administration, all eyes are now on how much impact it will have on open public drinking in Paradip and how effectively the local administration can control the situation.

To ensure the festival is conducted in a peaceful, well-organized, and secure manner, the district administration has initiated extensive planning and coordination efforts. Sital Sasthi is one of the most significant cultural and religious festivals of Western Odisha, celebrated as the ceremonial marriage of Lord Shiva and Goddess Parvati.

A crucial Peace and Coordination Committee Meeting was held under the chairmanship of Sambalpur Collector Siddheshwar Baliram Bondar (IAS). During the meeting, all concerned departments were directed to take necessary measures to ensure smooth management of the festival and the massive influx of devotees expected this year.

The Collector appreciated the cooperation of various festival committees and the public for making last year's celebration a grand success. To facilitate the smooth movement of processions,

Temporary health camps will be established at key locations, ORS packets will be distributed to festival committees, and mobile ambulances will remain on standby for emergency services. Food quality inspections will also be conducted in hotels and restaurants. To ensure uninterrupted drinking water

Purushottam Month Recognised as the 13th Month in Astrology: Experts

Puri : Puri A discussion session on the significance of Purushottam Maas was organised at the premises of Shri Jagannath Veda Karmakanda Mahavidyalaya under the aegis of Shrigundicha Adhyatmik Trust Odisha. The event was presided over by the trust's vice-president Binod Kumar Panda.

Speaking as the chief guest, Prof Dr Satyanarayan Acharya, Vice-Chancellor of Odia University, said Indian astrology is broadly divided into two streams — mathematical astrology and predictive astrology. He explained that the concepts of solar and lunar months are determined on the basis of the Earth's daily rotation and orbital movement.

Acharya said the Earth takes 365 days to revolve around the Sun, while the lunar cycle is completed in 354 days, creating an 11-day difference. "This difference results in an additional month once every two years and eight months, which is known as Adhika Maas or Purushottam Maas," he said, adding that special worship of Mala Narayan is performed during this sacred period.

Historian Madan Mohan Mahapatra, while outlining the theme of the discussion, said Jagadguru Shrimad Shankaracharya had played a major role in curbing the influence of Buddhism between 788 AD and 820 AD. He further stated that the idol of Mala Narayan depicts Buddha in a yogic posture among the Dashavatar representations.

Among others present on the dais were senior servitor Bhagaban Suar, college principal Prof Harapriya Dash, senior trust member Pratibha Tripathy and general secretary Laxminarayan Pattnaik.

GB Nagar: 206 challans issued against overloaded trucks in May

Greater Noida: In its enforcement drive against overloaded trucks, the Gautam Budh Nagar transport department has issued challans to 206 vehicles in May so far and recovered ₹50.8 lakh as compounding fees, officials said on Saturday.

According to officials, overloaded trucks and mini-trucks were checked at multiple locations across the district, including Sector 142, Jewar, Knowledge Park, Badalpur and D Park in Sector 62.

Regional transport officer (enforcement) Udit Narayan Pandey said, "The enforcement drives aim to curb overloading vehicles in the district. During the campaign this month, 206 overloaded vehicles have been penalised and penalties amounting to ₹1.29 crore were imposed, out of which ₹50.8 lakh has been recovered."

Officials said the drive also led to the impounding of several vehicles from Sector 142, Jewar, Knowledge Park, Badalpur, and Sector 62.

Transport department officials said that overloading poses serious safety risks and leads to damage to vehicles, roads and the environment. Excessive load increases the chances of brake failure, tyre bursts, and vehicle overturning, thereby endangering drivers and other commuters, they added.

"Overloading puts additional pressure on engines, suspension systems, tyres and brakes, resulting in faster wear and tear and increased maintenance costs," Pandey said.

Delhi-Meerut RRTS boosted by 8 additional trips

Noida: Eight additional Namo Bharat train trips have been introduced during morning and evening peak hours on the Meerut-Delhi-Ghaziabad rapid rail corridor to ease overcrowding and reduce standing travel, the National Capital Region Transport Corporation (NCRTC) said. The additional trips came into effect on Friday.

The decision follows a sharp rise in passenger traffic, especially during office hours, NCRTC officials said. More than 100,000 passengers now travel daily on the corridor. The Meerut Metro is recording an average daily footfall of 20,000 to 25,000 commuters.

At present, 30 Namo Bharat trains operate between Meerut and Sarai Kale Khan in Delhi. However, heavy crowding between 8am and 11am and again from 5pm to 7pm had become routine, with many passengers forced to travel standing.

Crowding has been particularly high at Modipuram, Begumpul, Shatabdinagar and Meerut South stations. NCRTC has deployed two additional trains to ensure smooth operations after the increase in trips.

The Meerut Metro continues to serve as a key feeder network for the Namo Bharat system within the city. Twelve metro trains operate across 12 stations between Modipuram and Meerut South. The Namo Bharat train halts at four stations in Meerut — Modipuram, Begumpul, Shatabdinagar and Meerut South — making the metro service crucial for last-mile connectivity.

Punit Vats, chief public relations officer of NCRTC, said the increased frequency would significantly improve commuter convenience. "Passengers will now get trains every five minutes during peak hours, reducing the need to travel standing. Promoting public transport is essential to reduce dependence on private vehicles," he said.

He added that if demand continues to rise, operational trains could be increased from 30 to 33, enabling services at intervals of every three minutes.

Daily commuters welcomed the move. Deepak Kumar, a resident of Pallavpuram who regularly travels between Begumpul and Sarai Kale Khan, said overcrowding had become a daily challenge. "Earlier, it was difficult to get a seat during office hours and we often had to travel standing. The additional trips will definitely provide relief," he said.

Madhu Babu Pension Scheme:- Beneficiaries struggling with delays and frustration & dies without receiving pension for two months.

Khordha - 24/5- While the state government's Social Security and Empowerment of Persons with Disabilities Department (SSEPD) is providing ₹1000 per month to each beneficiaries and ₹3500 to those above 80 years of age for Madhu Babu Pension Yojana (MBPY) to eligible beneficiaries, for the past two months, a large number of beneficiaries in 22 Gram Panchayats under the Khordha Panchayat Samiti and 22 wards under Khordha Municipal Council have been deprived of receiving the allowance. This incident brought to the notice of the officers and employees in charge of distribution of allowances those who have not received they said that the allowance money will go to their accounts as per the government's decision. But after two months, the money has not been credited to the accounts of the beneficiaries, as a result of which many beneficiaries have died waiting for the allowance. A glaring example of which can be seen in Bhatpada village of Bangida, GP, under Khordha Panchayat Samiti. In that village, Rangi Patalsingh W/O- Sidhanath Patalsingh was bedridden due to illness for a long time. For two months, despite receiving widow pension and having a ration card since November-2025, she could not get any ration items and died on 16.5.2026. As per the rules of the state government, the beneficiaries who are unable to come to the panchayat to collect the allowance due to illness are provided by going to their homes and paying the allowance. While the Panchayat Executive Officer (PEO) working in Bangida GP, due to his reckless attitude, she was deprived of getting the allowance and finally died. After this news was circulated in this area the PEO, took prompt action and on 21.5.2026, he paid Rangi Patalsingh one month allowance of ₹1000 after taking a finger print from his grandson Subrata Patalsingh. Rangi Patalsingh husband Sidha Nath Patalsingh passed away on 27.11.2025 no ration has been provided to her till date, having her name in the ration card vide ration card no- 19090210489. After the incident was brought to the attention of BDO Khordha, he said that the incident was investigated and strict action would be taken against the guilty. Otherwise, another incident like Jeetu Munda will not happen who will say.

China's 90% Model: China Has America by the Throat: Here's How to Fight Back and Win by RAM CHARAN is a provocative and fiercely argued book. It presents China's rise not as a normal story of economic competition, but as a coordinated and systemic effort to dominate global industrial capacity at the expense of the United States and the existing international economic order. Urgent in tone and unapologetically strategic in outlook, the book reads less like conventional business analysis and more like a warning siren directed at corporate leaders and policymakers.

At the core of the argument lies what Charan calls the "90% Model"-a strategy in which China allegedly builds overwhelming industrial capacity, supports exports through state subsidies and currency advantages, and floods global markets with low-cost products until foreign competitors collapse. The book traces how sectors such as furniture, textiles, chemicals, pharmaceutical ingredients and solar panels have already been hollowed out, while warning that advanced industries like artificial intelligence, aerospace and biotechnology may be next.

One of the book's greatest strengths is the author's authority and experience. Charan has spent decades advising global CEOs and working closely with Chinese companies, giving the narrative an insider's immediacy. The inclusion of anonymous executive testimony adds further intrigue and suggests the climate of fear and caution surrounding discussions of China in corporate America.

Whether one agrees fully with the book's conclusions or not, it is difficult to dismiss the depth of concern it captures.

The writing is sharp, direct and highly readable. Unlike academic works burdened by jargon, this book is structured for impact, often employing concise arguments and vivid examples to sustain momentum. Its central claim-that America is engaged in an economic war it barely recognizes-gives the work a sense of urgency that will resonate strongly with business leaders and geopolitical observers.

At times, however, the book risks

"This is a wake-up call. America is encircled."

oversimplifying an extraordinarily complex global relationship. China's economic rise involves multiple factors beyond predatory state strategy, including global consumer demand, multinational corporate decisions and weaknesses within Western industrial policy itself. Readers seeking a more balanced geopolitical analysis may find the book occasionally one-sided and alarmist.

Nevertheless, the book succeeds as a forceful intervention in contemporary debates about globalization, industrial policy and economic sovereignty. Bold, controversial and strategically focused, it challenges readers to rethink assumptions about free markets, national competitiveness and the future balance of global power.

Haunted Histories of Lucknow

Arun Mishra

In Lucknow, After the Lamps Go Out: Tales of Ghosts and Jinns by Parveen Talha is an atmospheric and hauntingly beautiful exploration of memory, folklore and the supernatural embedded within the cultural fabric of Lucknow. More than a collection of ghost stories, the book becomes a meditation on how cities remember their past through whispers, ruins, legends and silences.

What distinguishes this work from conventional horror fiction is its emotional and historical depth. Talha is not interested in cheap thrills or dramatic scares. Instead, her stories unfold gently, almost conversationally, allowing unease to emerge from atmosphere rather than shock. The ghosts and jinns that inhabit these pages feel less like monsters and more like lingering traces of grief, displacement and unfinished histories.

The city itself is the true protagonist of the book. Through old neighbourhoods, graveyards, railway stations, abandoned kothis and colonial ruins, Talha reconstructs a Lucknow where the past constantly presses against the present. Particularly powerful is the way the trauma of Indian Rebellion of 1857 shadows many of the narratives. Sites such as the Residency, Begum Kothi and Firangi Mahal are transformed into spaces where history refuses to fade quietly.

Talha's prose is elegant, restrained and deeply evocative. She writes with the intimacy of someone who knows the city from within-its tehzeeb, rhythms, anxieties and fading aristocratic memories. Her treatment of jinn lore adds a distinctive cultural and theological richness rarely explored in Indian supernatural writing. The stories move fluidly between faith, oral tradition and lived experience, leaving readers uncertain where reality ends and imagination begins.

Another strength of the book is its melancholy tone. Beneath the supernatural surface lies a profound awareness of loss-the loss of worlds, families, languages and ways of living that survive only in fragments. This gives the collection unusual literary weight and emotional resonance.

In Lucknow, After the Lamps Go Out is a book about haunted histories rather than haunted houses. Thoughtful, immersive and quietly devastating, it will appeal not only to lovers of ghost stories but also to readers interested in cities, memory and the invisible lives carried within old places.

Searching and profoundly Human

BhaskarParichha

The Ashes Are Warm: Memories of a Lifetime Spent with UG Krishnamurti is not a conventional memoir, nor merely a book about spirituality. It is a deeply intimate excavation of the self, assembled from the scattered diary fragments of filmmaker Mahesh Bhatt and sensitively shaped by author Sunita Pant Bansal into a haunting narrative of emotional and spiritual disintegration. What gives the book its unusual power is its refusal to offer comfort or neat conclusions. These are not polished recollections written with hindsight, but raw entries born in moments of despair, anger, confusion and fleeting clarity. The result is a work that feels startlingly immediate and emotionally exposed. Bhatt appears here not as the celebrated director known to the public, but as a man stripped of certainty-restless, wounded, searching, and often painfully self-aware.

At the centre of the narrative stands U. G. Krishnamurti, whose presence looms like a force of destruction rather than guidance. UG is portrayed neither as guru nor philosopher in the traditional sense, but as someone who dismantles illusions and spiritual pretensions with merciless intensity. Through this relationship, the book becomes less about enlightenment and more about the collapse of identity itself.

Sunita Pant Bansal deserves considerable credit for preserving the fractured, intimate texture of Bhatt's writings while giving them coherence and rhythm. Her experience as a mythologist and interpreter of spiritual traditions is evident in the way she frames Bhatt's turmoil without romanticising it. The prose remains accessible yet reflective, allowing readers to engage with complex emotional and philosophical questions. What ultimately distinguishes The Ashes Are Warm is its brutal honesty. It challenges the reader to confront uncomfortable truths about ego, ambition, love, and the human hunger for meaning. There are moments when the narrative feels repetitive or emotionally exhausting, but perhaps that is inevitable in a book born from inner conflict rather than literary design. Dark, searching, and profoundly human, The Ashes Are Warm is a courageous meditation on what remains after illusion, identity, and certainty have been reduced to ashes.

Exploration of Human Behaviour

BhaskarParichha

MicroStimuli: Decisions In Milliseconds: The New Science of Persuasion | Behavioural Economics, Artificial Intelligence and Neuroscience for Business by Biju Dominic is an ambitious and thought-provoking exploration of human behaviour in the age of neuroscience and digital distraction. Blending psychology, behavioural economics, artificial intelligence, and design thinking, the book proposes a radical idea: that human decisions are often shaped not by conscious reasoning, but by tiny, almost invisible triggers acting within milliseconds before action.

At the centre of the book is Dominic's concept of "MicroStimuli"-small, nonconscious persuasive cues designed to activate the brain's fastest decision-making pathways. Rather than relying on lengthy messaging or rational persuasion, these interventions aim to influence behaviour at the precise point of action. The argument is both provocative and timely, especially in an era where attention spans are fragmented and human interaction increasingly mediated through screens.

One of the book's greatest strengths is its practical orientation. Dominic does not remain trapped in theory; instead, he demonstrates how MicroStimuli has been applied to real-world problems ranging from road safety and insurance mis-selling to medication adherence and digital marketing. These case studies make the book engaging and accessible, showing how behavioural insights can solve problems that conventional awareness campaigns often fail to address.

The writing is clear, energetic, and highly readable despite dealing with complex scientific ideas. Dominic succeeds in translating neuroscience into everyday language without oversimplifying it. His critique of traditional advertising and rational-choice assumptions feels especially relevant in today's hyper-distracted digital culture. The observation that people glance at phones thousands of times daily while advertisers still rely on thirty-second commercials effectively captures the changing nature of attention itself.

At times, the book's enthusiasm for behavioural influence may leave readers questioning the ethical implications of nonconscious persuasion. While Dominic presents MicroStimuli as a tool for positive social and organisational change, the same techniques could potentially be misused in manipulative ways. The book touches on these concerns but could have explored them in greater depth. Nevertheless, MicroStimuli is a fascinating and important contribution to contemporary behavioural studies. It challenges readers to rethink how decisions are made and how change truly occurs. Insightful, innovative, and deeply relevant, the book is essential reading for marketers, policymakers, designers, and anyone interested in the hidden mechanics of human behaviour.

Endangered: Kerala's Demography, Drift and Destiny by Ajith Nayar is an intelligent, timely and deeply reflective examination of Kerala's uncertain future beneath the surface of its celebrated development model. Rather than attacking Kerala's achievements, the book asks a more difficult question: what happens when a successful society begins to drift structurally, even while continuing to take pride in its past accomplishments?

Nayar approaches Kerala not as a detached academic observer but as an entrepreneur and institution-builder concerned with the long-term sustainability of societies. This perspective gives the book both urgency and practical relevance. The central argument is compelling: Kerala's demographic transition-marked by ageing, migration, shrinking workforce participation and expanding welfare commitments-may gradually erode the foundations that once made the state exceptional.

One of the book's greatest strengths is its global comparative framework. By drawing parallels with ageing societies such as Japan, Italy, South Korea and Lebanon, Nayar demonstrates that decline in advanced societies is rarely sudden or catastrophic. Instead, it emerges quietly through institutional stagnation, declining productivity and the inability to adapt to changing demographic realities. These comparisons elevate the book beyond regional commentary and place Kerala within a larger global conversation about ageing societies and economic resilience.

The prose is measured, analytical and accessible. Nayar avoids sensationalism, preferring careful reasoning over ideological rhetoric. Particularly insightful is his discussion of the "Kerala paradox"-a state that produces highly skilled, globally employable citizens yet struggles to create sufficient opportunities for them locally. This contradiction lies at the emotional and economic core of the book.

At times, the book's emphasis on structural drift may appear overly pessimistic, especially to readers emotionally invested in the Kerala model. Some may also wish for more detailed policy prescriptions. Yet the author's aim is less to provide a technical roadmap than to provoke serious civic reflection before demographic trends harden into irreversible decline.

Endangered is ultimately a courageous and necessary book. It challenges complacency while remaining deeply invested in Kerala's future. Thoughtful, provocative and globally informed, it deserves to be widely read by policymakers, students, entrepreneurs and citizens concerned about how successful societies renew themselves before success turns into stagnation.

Celebration of a Mystic

BhaskarParichha

Peero: The Spiritual Mother of Punjab's Gulabdas Sect is far more than a collection of translated mystical verses; it is an act of literary recovery and cultural justice. Through this remarkable volume, scholar and translator Neeti Singh rescues the voice of Peero-Punjab's first known female mystic-poet-from centuries of neglect and restores her to the centre of the Bhakti-Sufi tradition.

What makes the book compelling is not only the poetry itself but the extraordinary life behind it. Born into hardship and forced into world of Lahore's HeeraMandi, Peero transformed personal suffering into spiritual rebellion. Her journey from courtesan to revered mystic becomes a powerful challenge to patriarchy, religious orthodoxy, and social hypocrisy. In many ways, her life embodies the radical freedom that her poetry celebrates.

The translations are lucid, lyrical, and emotionally alive. Peero's voice emerges as fearless and deeply human-sensuous yet spiritual, rebellious yet compassionate. Her poetry rejects rigid boundaries between sacred and profane, Hindu and Muslim, asceticism and worldly pleasure. Instead, she imagines spirituality as a space of inclusion, ecstasy, and liberation. Particularly striking is her celebration of marginalized figures and her refusal to submit to the authority of the "Pandit and the Qazi."

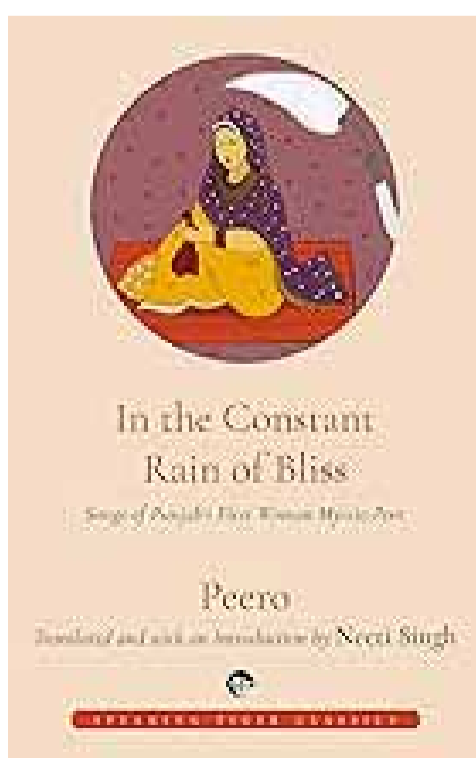

Neeti Singh's scholarship provides valuable historical and literary context without overwhelming the reader. Her deep engagement with Bhakti literature and music enriches the translations and helps modern readers appreciate Peero's unique place within the Nirguna Bhakti tradition.

This book is important not only for students of literature and religion but for anyone interested in women's voices, resistance, and the hidden histories of South Asia. It reminds us how many extraordinary women have been erased from mainstream literary memory.

Rich, provocative, and deeply moving, Peero is both a rediscovery and a celebration of a mystic whose voice still feels astonishingly modern.

Calmness Indicates A Strong Mind

Dr. Tapan Kumar Pal

Still waters run deep, and the great universal forces are inaudible. Where calmness is, there is the greatest power. Calmness is the sure indication of a strong, well-trained, patiently disciplined mind. The calm man knows his business, be sure of it. His words are few, but they tell. His schemes are well planned, and they work true, like a well-balanced machine.... As he is prepared for all events, so he is ready for all men...he commands by an inherent force which calmness has rendered habitual and unconscious. Calmness, as distinguished from the dead placidity of languor, is the acme of concentrated energy. There is a focused mentality behind it. In agitation and excitement, the mentality is dispersed.

This simple realization is what gives the saints and mystics such a calm approach to life. They realize that our true self is the soul, a citizen of the higher regions. The soul is a mere traveler in this physical world. It wears a physical body and is given a physical mind. While here, we are witness to the passing illusion and maya of this world. It is like going to the theater except we are part of the play.

Sometimes we are given a happy part to play and sometimes we play a sad role. The events laid out for us are due to our past karma. Some events of the play are scripted for us, but as actors and actresses we also have some free will to improvise and play the part the way we want. However, at the end of the play, the curtain closes and we return back to our true Home.

As the play progresses, there will be ups and downs in our role. We will have happy events and sad events. The key is to realize that each of them is like clouds that too will pass. Although no one likes the sad parts, they will also pass. As we pass through our day, instead of being battered about by happy moods and sad moods as the play of our life unfolds, we can remain calm. We can avoid the ups and downs of life by realizing they will all pass. We should instead keep our attention on God and spend time daily in meditation. In this way we can remain in a calm state. Then, like the seeker, we too can experience joy and laughter because we know that whatever happens is but a passing dark cloud that will blow away to leave the skies clear again.

75-yr-old man and caretaker found dead in Ghaziabad home

Ghaziabad, 24/5: A 75-year-old man and his caretaker were found dead in the former's third-floor flat at DLF in Shalimar Garden, police said. Three fire incidents linked to AC units reported in Noida, no casualties

Noida, 24/5: Three separate fire incidents linked to air-conditioners were reported across Noida on Friday, fire department officials said, adding that no casualties or injuries were reported. In the first incident, reported at around 3.32pm, a fire broke out in a seventh-floor flat at Futech Gateway Society in Sector 75. As a fire engine reached the spot, it was found that the fire had started in the compressor of an air conditioner," Noida fire officials said in a statement. Officials said the fire was extinguished using the society's hose reel system before it could spread further. In the second incident, reported at around 5.10pm, the Sector 58 fire station received information about a fire in a flat at the BPCL Society in Sector 56. "Upon arrival, it was found that the fire had started in an air conditioner in a room on the seventh floor," fire officials said in a statement. In this case too, the building's in-house firefighting system was used to control and extinguish the blaze. "No casualties reported in the incident," the statement added. In the third incident, a fire was reported at a company in Sector 63. Teams from Sector 58 and 71 fire stations reached the spot and found furniture and other equipment, including air conditioners on fire. "It was observed that fire had broken out in furniture and other equipment, such as AC units, stored at the back," fire fighting officials said. Pradeep Kumar, chief fire officer (Gautam Budh Nagar), said 26 fire incidents had been reported in the district over the past 15 days. "Running ACs at very low temperatures, such as 17°C or 18°C, increases the load on electrical systems and can lead to fires. We advise residents to keep AC temperatures around 24°C during summer and ensure timely servicing," Kumar said.

Greater Noida Roads to Become Wider and Smoother; Authority Prepares 95 Crore Master Plan

Greater Noida, 24/5: Due to the city's growing population, traffic pressure has started causing congestion on roads. During morning and evening peak hours, several roads across the city experience traffic jams. After the operations of the Noida International Airport begin, the number of vehicles passing through the city is expected to increase further. To deal with the situation, the Greater Noida Industrial Development Authority has started widening city roads. Apart from the main roads, the roads connecting different sectors will also be widened. The authority has initiated the process of selecting an executing agency for the project. Around 95.77 crore will be spent on this development work. Roundabouts Built to Ensure Smooth Traffic Greater Noida was developed as a planned city, and the authority has so far kept it free from traffic signals. To ensure uninterrupted traffic movement, roundabouts have been constructed at major intersections. However, the current road widths are now proving insufficient due to the rising number of vehicles. Residents are facing frequent traffic jams. During morning and evening hours, congestion is commonly seen at places like Pari Chowk, Sector P-3, Sector Pi, Labour Chowk, LG Roundabout, Surajpur T-point Plan Prepared to Increase Road Width To solve this issue, the authority has prepared a plan to widen the city's major roads. Work on the project is expected to begin soon. The authority plans to widen almost all major roads in the city, with an estimated expenditure of 95.77 crore.

Private, unaided schools can raise fees at start of session without govt nod: Delhi HC

Noida, 24/5: The Delhi high court on Friday held that private unaided recognised schools are not required to obtain prior permission or sanction from the Directorate of Education (DoE) to hike fees at the commencement of an academic session, clarifying that such a step is needed only when they seek to implement a fee hike during an ongoing academic session. However, adopting an equitable approach, a bench of justices Anup Jairam Bhambhani directed that the fee increases proposed by the respective schools in the statements submitted to the DoE would take effect only from the 2027 academic session. The bench clarified that no school would be permitted to demand or recover any arrears of fees or other charges retrospectively for previous academic sessions. The bench clarified that schools increasing fees at the commencement of an academic session must submit a statement of proposed fees to the DoE before the session begins.

However, private unaided recognised schools continue to enjoy financial autonomy and it is not for the DoE to "dictate" or "micro-manage" the manner in which their fiscal affairs are conducted, the justice said. The court observed in its verdict that the DoE's regulatory powers over fee fixation in private unaided recognised schools are narrowly limited and do not permit general interference. The court said that the mere existence of surplus funds in a school's accounts cannot be the sole basis for the DoE to infer that the school is indulging in commercialisation. "Under Section 17(3) of the Delhi School Education Act, 1973, no prior permission or sanction is required by a private, unaided, recognised school to increase its fee at the commencement of an academic session; and the only statutory obligation upon a school is that it must file its statement of proposed fee with the DoE prior to commencement of an academic session," the court said.

Four students injured as building wall collapses

Faridabad, 24/5: At least four students inside a classroom in Faridabad, Haryana, were injured on Saturday after a wall of an adjacent building collapsed onto the school terrace, causing it to cave in, police said. Police said that all the injured were girl students in UKG studying at a private school that has classes up to VIII standard in Bharat Colony. Police said that all four received multiple stitches on their heads due to deep cut wounds caused by the debris that fell on them. Their condition is reported to be stable. The school administration alerted the police control room, and the injured were rushed to Badshah Khan Civil Hospital for treatment, police said. Inspector Devender Singh, station house officer of Kheri Pul police station, said the incident took place between 9.15am and 9.20am on Saturday when a storm hit Faridabad. "The gusty winds caused a wall of a three-storey building to collapse onto the terrace of a neighbouring two-storey building where the school functions," he said. Singh said the impact on the terrace caused its beam to break, and the concrete debris fell on the students sitting inside a classroom. "It resulted in panic, and the entire school premises was vacated immediately as a safety measure," he said.

Both sustained bullet injuries to their legs," said Shailendra Singh, deputy commissioner of police (DCP), Central Noida. Their condition is stable at hospital, said officials. Greater Noida, 24/5: In its enforcement drive against overloaded trucks, the Gautam Budh Nagar transport department has issued challans to 206 vehicles in May so far and recovered 750.8 lakh as compounding fees, officials said on Saturday. According to officials, overloaded trucks and mini-trucks were checked at multiple locations across the district, including Sector 142, Jewar, Knowledge Park, Badalpur and D Park in Sector 62. Regional transport officer (enforcement) Udit Narayan Pandey said, "The enforcement drives aim to curb overloading vehicles in the district. During the campaign this month, 206 overloaded vehicles have been penalised and penalties amounting to 1.29 crore were imposed, out of which 50.8 lakh has been recovered." Officials said the drive also led to the impounding of several vehicles from Sector 142, Jewar, Knowledge Park, Badalpur, and Sector 62. Transport department officials said that overloading poses serious safety risks and leads to damage to vehicles, roads and the environment. Excessive load increases the chances of brake failure, tyre bursts, and vehicle overturning, thereby endangering drivers and other commuters, they added.

Faridabad: State-Level Badminton Player Kidnapped and Beaten to Death Over Alleged Love Affair

Faridabad, 24/5: A shocking case has emerged involving the death of 21-year-old Monu, a state-level badminton player from Saidpur village in Bhiwadi. Family members have alleged that he was murdered over a love affair. According to them, Monu was kidnapped and held captive for three days, during which he was brutally beaten. He later died during treatment. Monu was reportedly found injured outside the girl's house. According to his uncle Narendra, Monu had recently appeared for his Class 12 examinations and scored around 70 percent marks. He had represented his school in state-level badminton championships and had won several medals at the district level. His father, Bhim Singh, works as a driver, and the family has two sons. The uncle further stated that a minor girl from the Tigaon area frequently visited Saidpur to meet her maternal uncle, during which she became friends with Monu. According to police, Monu had taken the girl with him in April, after which her father filed a kidnapping case at Tigaon police station. Police later traced the girl and handed her back to her family, while Monu had reportedly been absconding since then. Family members allege that on May 17, Monu left home saying he was going to join the police investigation. However, they claim that the girl's family kidnapped him on the way. They further alleged that he was continuously tortured and assaulted for three days. According to Narendra, on May 20, the police informed the family that Monu had been found in an injured condition outside the girl's house. The family rushed him to a private hospital, where he died during treatment. Police spokesperson Yashpal said that based on the family's complaint, a case has been registered under charges including kidnapping, and an investigation is underway. Two accused persons have been questioned so far.

Delhi-Meerut RRTS boosted by 8 additional trips

Noida, 24/5: Eight additional Namo Bharat train trips have been introduced during morning and evening peak hours on the Meerut-Delhi-Ghaziabad rapid rail corridor to ease overcrowding and reduce standing travel, the National Capital Region Transport Corporation (NCRTC) said. The additional trips came into effect on Friday. The decision follows a sharp rise in passenger traffic, especially during office hours, NCRTC officials said. More than 100,000 passengers now travel daily on the corridor. The Meerut Metro is recording an average daily footfall of 20,000 to 25,000 commuters. At present, 30 Namo Bharat trains operate between Meerut and Sarai Kale Khan in Delhi. However, heavy crowding between 8am and 11am and again from 5pm to 7pm had become routine, with many passengers forced to travel standing. Crowding has been particularly high at Modipuram, Begumpul, Shatabdinagar and Meerut South stations. NCRTC has deployed two additional trains to ensure smooth operations after the increase in trips. The Meerut Metro continues to serve as a key feeder network for the Namo Bharat system within the city. Twelve metro trains operate across 12 stations between Modipuram and Meerut South. The Namo Bharat train halts at four stations in Meerut — Modipuram, Begumpul, Shatabdinagar and Meerut South — making the metro service crucial for last-mile connectivity. Punit Vats, chief public relations officer of NCRTC, said the increased frequency would significantly improve commuter convenience. "Passengers will now get trains every five minutes during peak hours, reducing the need to travel standing. Promoting public transport is essential to reduce dependence on private vehicles," he said. He added that if demand continues to rise, operational trains could be increased from 30 to 33, enabling services at intervals of every three minutes. Daily commuters welcomed the move. Deepak Kumar, a resident of Pallavpuram who regularly travels between Begumpul and Sarai Kale Khan, said overcrowding had become a daily challenge. "Earlier, it was difficult to get a seat during office hours and we often had to travel standing. The additional trips will definitely provide relief," he said.

Tailor held for arson during workers' protest in Noida

NOIDA, 24/5: The Gautam Budh Nagar police have arrested a 45-year-old for allegedly setting multiple vehicles on fire during the labour protest in Noida's Sector 63 last month, officials said on Saturday. Police identified the accused as Naresh Kumar, a resident of Sector 63 originally from Jaitikhera in Fatehpur. Kumar was allegedly involved in violence and arson near Vipul Motors in Sector 63 during the workers' protest. According to police, large groups of labourers and workers gathered at multiple locations across the Gautam Budh Nagar Police Commissionerate on April 13, disrupting law and order and prompting the registration of cases at various police stations. Police said Naresh and his associates allegedly set fire to several four-wheelers and two-wheelers parked near Vipul Motors in a "planned manner" and used iron pipes to vandalise others. A case in connection with the incident was registered at the Sector 63 police station. Gautam Budh Nagar police said in a statement: "Naresh worked as a tailor at Mahavira Company in Sector 63, and had allegedly entered the company premises on the day of the protest and incited employees to go on strike. He later joined sloganeering workers and moved towards Vipul Motors where a crowd had already assembled." Police said a special team identified the accused and gathered evidence using "scientific methods". Officials claimed that the collected evidence showed the accused participating in the arson. Police said the investigation also revealed that Kumar had allegedly been present during a previous labour agitation in Manesar, Haryana.

Confirmed Ebola Cases In Uganda Rise To Five

Kampala,24/5: Uganda on Saturday confirmed three more new Ebola cases, raising the total number of infections in the country to five. The country's Ministry of Health updated that a Ugandan driver who transported the first confirmed case, a Ugandan health worker who got exposed while taking care of the first confirmed case, and a Congolese woman from the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC) who entered Uganda with symptoms are the new confirmed cases. The ministry noted that all three patients are now receiving treatment. It also added that all contacts linked to the confirmed cases have been identified and are being monitored closely by response teams. Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus, Director-General of the World Health Organisation (WHO), on Saturday acknowledged Uganda's Ministry of Health for their efforts to detect, monitor and care for people suspected of and confirmed to have contracted the Ebola virus. "At this critical moment in the outbreak response, it is vital that authorities maintain high vigilance to control the expansion of the virus," the WHO chief noted. "WHO is working side by side with Africa CDC and partners in the DRC and Uganda, to contain the outbreak, support affected people, and bolster a coordinated response," he added. The public health risk from the Ebola outbreak in the Democratic Republic of Congo has been upgraded from high to very high, the WHO said on Friday. "We are revising our risk assessment of Ebola to very high at the national level, high at the regional level, and low at global level," Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus told a press conference. Meanwhile, the Africa Centres for Disease Control and Prevention (Africa CDC) called for enhanced solidarity to rapidly contain the latest Ebola outbreak in the Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC) and Uganda. United Nations Under-Secretary-General for Humanitarian Affairs and Emergency Relief Coordinator, Tom Fletcher, said on Friday that he is allocating up to $60 million from the world body's Central Emergency Response Fund to accelerate the response to the Ebola outbreak in Congo and the wider region.

Islamic State Issues AI Precaution Manual To Avoid Security Surveillance

New Delhi,24/5: The Islamic State, in recent years, has proven to be one of the leading terror outfits when it comes to the use of technology. When it commenced operations in Syria and Iraq in late 2013, the focus was heavy on creating fear. For this, it had set up Hollywood-style studios where it shot beheading videos. While some of them were real, many were fake, and these videos were shot and circulated to create a perception of how lethal the outfit is. This worked well for the outfit, and many even ended up joining the group. Later, the Islamic State relied heavily on propaganda and radicalisation through its encrypted communication channels. It even has magazines today and sends out regular newsletters to its subscribers. The advent of Artificial Intelligence (AI) has also been a boon for the Islamic State. It has used the technology extensively to generate content in the form of videos. The videos are currently available in many languages thanks to the technology available. While the Islamic State has used such technology to further its agenda, it has now been advising its followers to also use AI carefully. The outfit has realised that using technology extensively also has its drawbacks. Currently, it is engaged in lessons on how to use the technology and not end up getting tracked by the security agencies. Indian intelligence officials say that the Islamic State uses its Voice of Khorasan to send out messages to its followers. For the last couple of months, the message has been largely around how to avoid getting tracked by the security agencies. There are lessons on how AI can be used for anonymous private research. In an article published in the Voice of Khorasan, it says that chatbots should not be used to share sensitive information, as this could be used by the agencies to track them. The Islamic State suggests that its followers should use tools such as Brave Leo to share sensitive information, and this protects privacy. "AI is like fire and can be used to light a home and also burn it down." The emphasis is largely on being a responsible fighter and the need to take precautions while operating. The Islamic State advises that its mujahideen should be aware of all the available technology. The article says that AI can end up learning too much about you, and all measures should be taken to be cyber-conscious. While advising the mujahideen to learn technology, it also urges them to prepare their children from a very young age for the use of technology. An Intelligence Bureau official says that the advice comes in the wake of security agencies closing in on Islamic State operations across the world, where the use of technology is concerned. The outfit realises that many of its operatives are being careless while using technology, and hence, such frequent tutorials are being imparted, the official said.

Ivanka Trump Targetted By Terrorist Trained By IRGC: Report

Washington,24/5: Ivanka Trump, daughter of US President Donald Trump, was allegedly targetted by a terrorist trained by the Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps (IRGC), determined to avenge the killing of General Qasem Soleimani, eliminated by the United States in a raid in Baghdad in January 2020. The New York Post reported that the 32-year-old Iraqi Mohammad Baqer Saad Dawood Al-Saadi allegedly "swore" to kill Ivanka and managed to obtain a floor plan of her Florida residence. According to sources cited by the newspaper, Al-Saadi reportedly said that "killing Ivanka would mean burning Trump's house as he burned ours." The man also allegedly posted a map of the residential area where Ivanka lives with her husband, Jared Kushner, on social media, accompanied by threats in Arabic against the Trump family and the American secret services. Adnkronos news agency reported. Al-Saadi, considered close to the Shiite militias Kata'ib Hezbollah and the IRGC, was arrested in Turkey on May 15 and extradited to the United States. The US Department of Justice accuses him of coordinating or planning at least 18 attacks and attempted attacks in Europe and North America against US and Jewish targets. Among the contested incidents, the Post cites the throwing of Molotov cocktails at the Bank of New York Mellon in Amsterdam, the stabbing of two Jewish citizens in London, and a shooting at the US consulate in Toronto. Federal authorities also link him to arson attacks against Jewish places of worship in Belgium and the Netherlands. According to Entifadh Qanbar, a former military attaché at the Iraqi Embassy in Washington, Al-Saadi reportedly grew up in Baghdad and was subsequently trained in Iran by the IRGC after the death of his father, Iranian General Ahmad Kazemi. Qanbar claims that the suspected terrorist used a purported religious travel agency to travel abroad and establish connections with extremist cells. Al-Saadi was very active on social media, where he posted images of Iranian military symbols and messages of support for Soleimani. He is currently held in solitary confinement at the Metropolitan Detention Centre in Brooklyn.

Kevin Warsh Sworn-In As Federal Reserve Chair, Trump Wants Him To Be 'Independent'

Washington:24/5 President Donald Trump swore in Kevin Warsh as Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board and said he would restore confidence in the US' Central bank. Speaking at the White House East Room ceremony on Friday, Trump called Warsh "one of the truly great chairmen of the Federal Reserve that we've ever had". "He's respected by everybody, and that's so important in that position," the US President said. Warsh took the oath of office from Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas before an audience that included House Speaker Mike Johnson, Treasury Secretary Scott Bessent, Commerce Secretary Howard Lutnick and former Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice. Trump said he wanted Warsh to operate independently. "I want Kevin to be totally independent," he added. "Don't look at me, don't look at anybody, just do your own thing and do a great job." The US President criticised the Federal Reserve's recent direction. He said the institution had become distracted by "climate policy and Diversity,

BRICS Delhi Meeting Kept Core Agenda Intact Amid Ongoing Tensions: Report

Moscow,24/5: The recent BRICS Foreign Ministers' Meeting in New Delhi held under India's 2026 chairship showed that the bloc has navigated the intense geopolitical turbulence, successfully insulating its core agenda from the escalating tensions of the Gulf War. According to a report in the think tank Politeia Research Foundation (PRF), although the forum has weathered the crisis, the real challenges lie ahead, making "quiet and smart diplomacy" essential for the Delhi summit's success. Following the meeting held on May 14-15, the members agreed not to issue a joint statement, opting instead for a 'Chair's Statement and Outcome Document'. According to India's Sherpa for BRICS and Secretary in the Ministry of External Affairs, Sudhakar Dalela, the document reflected the "common position" of members on almost all subjects. "A close reading of the long document, which runs to 63 paragraphs, shows that despite persistent differences over the Gulf War, the central BRICS agenda has advanced, with progress in strengthening the forum and its essential goals. Hence, some observers who rushed to announce the demise or downfall of BRICS may have got it wrong," the report noted. The BRICS meeting, it said, was widely anticipated to witness a direct confrontation, with delegates from Iran and the UAE accusing each other over the outbreak of armed hostilities and the continuing war involving Israel and the US. As the BRICS chair, External Affairs Minister (EAM) S Jaishankar acknowledged without hesitation, "There were differing views among some members regarding the situation in West Asia/the Middle East". The report highlighted that most participants called for an early resolution of the current conflict through dialogue and diplomacy while stressing respect for sovereignty and territorial integrity. At the same time, there was also broad agreement on ensuring safe maritime trade routes and protecting civilian infrastructure and lives — reflecting convergence alongside differences. "Beyond the Middle East, BRICS foreign ministers had before them a rich menu of ideas and proposals to address, keeping in mind that their meeting was a bridge between the successful summit held in July 2025 in Rio de Janeiro and the forthcoming summit in Delhi, which is likely to take place in September this year," the report stated. Highlighting the successful outcome of the meeting, the report said that document mirrored almost all of India's key priorities, including "stronger formulations on UN Security Council reform, disaster management, food security, Digital Public Infrastructure (DPI), and terrorism."

Equity, and Inclusion (DEI) initiatives" instead of focusing on inflation and employment. Trump also praised Warsh for supporting reforms at the central bank. "He'll bring much needed reform and modernisation," Trump said, referring to data collection, economic modelling and the Fed's communication practices. Warsh said the Federal Reserve must remain focused on price stability and maximum employment. "Our mandate at the Fed is to promote price stability and maximum employment," he added. "When we pursue those aims with wisdom and clarity, independence and resolve, inflation can be lower, growth stronger, real take-home pay higher, and America can be more prosperous." He pledged to lead what he called a "reform-oriented Federal Reserve". "I will lead a reform-oriented Federal Reserve learning from past successes and mistakes," Warsh said. Trump used the event to promote his administration's economic record. He said the stock market had hit new highs during trading on Thursday. "Stock market's up 600 points," Trump said. "That means they like you." President Trump also said the United States had attracted "$18 trillion being invested in the US" during the first 11 months of his administration. He credited tariffs and deregulation for driving manufacturing and technology investment. "We're building factories, car plants, everything, AI, everything all over the country," Trump said.

Sunger, PHC Undergoes a Significant Transformation

Bhubaneswar, 24/5(DMS): Strengthening healthcare access for remote communities in Odisha, Vedanta Aluminium, under the CSR initiative of its Sijimali Bauxite Mines, has strengthened medical service delivery at the existing Sunger Primary Health Centre (PHC) through deployment of skilled medical manpower and essential healthcare support, significantly expanding health coverage in the region. Undertaken in collaboration with the District Health Administration, Rayagada, the initiative addresses persistent healthcare manpower gaps at the Sunger Primary Health Centre (PHC), which caters to nearly 20,000 people across the hilly and tribal catchment area as per Indian Public Health Standards (IPHS) norms. Vedanta Aluminium has supported deployment across all 11 staff positions at the PHC, including an MBBS Doctor, AYUSH Doctor, Pharmacist and nursing staff, along with ambulance support. During the last health camp in the area, community members had specifically demanded the provision of a permanent doctor and nursing staff, and this intervention responds directly to that need. The mortuary van is proposed as part of the broader healthcare strengthening effort and is not yet deployed. The enhanced healthcare support was formally inaugurated on May 22, 2026, marking a key step towards improving access to timely and quality healthcare for communities in the Sijimali region. The strengthened medical services are expected to significantly reduce the need for villagers to travel long distances for basic treatment and emergency care, ensuring quicker medical attention for pregnant women, children, elderly residents, and critically ill patients in remote surrounding villages. The inauguration ceremony was graced by Govinda

Ch Naik, husband of Kuni Kumari Naik, Ex Vice Chairman, Kashipur Block; Sunil Kumar Rai, Kashipur Block Program Manager (National Health Mission), Damayanti Sahoo, ANM, alongside Gaurav Mani Naik, Head Master, Kantamal, Suryanaraya Singh,

Head Master and local health officials, Samiti Members, Anganwadi Workers, ASHA Workers, SHG members, and community representatives. The event witnessed participation from approximately 200 attendees, reflecting strong community support for the initiative. Speaking on the occasion, Head Master, Dumerpadar School, Suryanaryana Singh said “ The Sunger PHC catchment area had been facing shortages in healthcare manpower, impacting access to medical services for local communities. Vedanta Aluminium’s intervention is expected to bridge these critical gaps by strengthening primary healthcare infrastructure, enabling faster medical response, and ensuring better continuity of care for residents across surrounding villages.” Vedanta Aluminium has been undertaking several healthcare interventions across Odisha to improve access to quality medical services in remote and underserved regions. Through mobile health units, health awareness campaigns, maternal and child healthcare programmes, specialist health camps, nutrition initiatives, and infrastructure support to government healthcare institutions, the company continues to strengthen public healthcare systems in districts such as Rayagada, Kalahandi and Jharsuguda. Vedanta Aluminium also caters to communities in Koraput district through Kodingamali mines interventions. The Mobile Health Unit forms an important part of this wider outreach by taking essential healthcare services to people’s doorsteps, including basic consultations, screening, primary treatment, referral support and health awareness services for remote villages with limited access to fixed medical facilities. The company’s healthcare initiatives have positively impacted thousands of community members by enabling timely diagnosis, preventive care, emergency medical support, and improved healthcare accessibility closer to their homes.

Nearly 1 In 2 Firms In India Identify AI, Digital, Data Skills As Key Workforce Constraint

New Delhi, 24/5: As artificial intelligence (AI) unfolds an exciting yet uncertain future at the global level, 45 per cent of organisations in India identify AI, digital, and data skills as their single largest workforce constraint, according to a new report. Around 54 per cent of organisations report moderate to low urgency on AI investment in the country. Green and ESG capabilities follow, with 41 per cent reporting a large gap. Only one in 14 organisations qualifies as advanced in ESG talent capability, while 31 per cent remain in the awareness and planning stage, says the ‘SHRM India Skill Intelligence Report 2026’. The learning investment picture makes this harder to fix. Nearly 60 per cent of L&D budgets go toward digital self-paced content and classroom instruction. On gig workforce models, the hesitation is a trust problem, not a regulation problem. About 53 per cent of adoption barriers relate to skill quality and career continuity. Just 13 per cent cite regulatory complexity, said the report. India is at a defining moment in its workforce transformation journey. As organisations accelerate investments in AI, digital transformation, and sustainability, the real differentiator will be their ability to build future-ready skills at scale, said Achal Khanna, CEO, SHRM APAC and MENA. Around the world, leaders are confronting the same challenge: how to prepare people and organisations for work that is being reshaped in real time. “What stands out in India is the scale of opportunity. With one of the world’s youngest workforces and a rapidly evolving digital ecosystem, India is uniquely positioned to set the benchmark for how nations build resilient, future-ready talent,” said Johnny C Taylor, Jr., President and CEO, SHRM. The report found that while awareness of the skills challenge is high, organisational capability to act on it at scale remains critically underdeveloped.

RBI Dividend, Middle East Tensions, Crude Oil Prices To Drive Dalal Street Next Week

Mumbai, 24/5: The Indian stock market is expected to remain volatile next week as investors closely track the impact of the RBI’s record dividend transfer to the government, developments surrounding the ongoing US-Iran conflict, and fluctuations in global crude oil prices. Persistent weakness in the rupee, inflation concerns, and global cues are also likely to influence market sentiment. Benchmark indices Sensex and Nifty ended the week with modest gains despite witnessing sharp intraday swings and range-bound trade throughout the sessions. The volatility in the market was driven by mixed global signals, sectoral rotation, weakness in the Indian rupee, and concerns over inflation and interest rates. The Nifty rose 0.32 per cent during the week to settle at 23,719.30, while the Sensex gained 0.23 per cent to close at 75,415.35. Going into the new week, market participants are expected to focus on the Reserve Bank of India’s record surplus transfer to the Centre. The RBI on Friday announced a dividend payout of Rs 2.87 lakh crore to the government for FY26. Experts believe the large dividend transfer could provide fiscal support to the government and improve liquidity conditions, which may aid market sentiment in the near term. Geopolitical tensions in West Asia are also likely to remain a key trigger for Dalal Street. US President Donald Trump reportedly said on Saturday that talks between Washington and Tehran were “moving much closer” to a final agreement aimed at ending the conflict. Crude oil prices will also remain in focus next week. Brent crude futures settled at $103.54 per barrel, rising 96 cents or 0.94 per cent, while US West Texas Intermediate crude futures ended at $96.60 per barrel, up 25 cents or 0.26 per cent. Experts said that apart from these factors, investors will also keep an eye on foreign institutional investor activity, movement in the rupee, and global economic cues for further direction in the market.

Nearly 600 Canadian companies operate in India, with both sides aiming to raise that number to 1,000, he informed. Both countries have renewed discussions on a broader trade deal and maintain strong ties in agriculture, energy, education and technology. Goyal is leading a delegation of Indian business leaders with engagements in Ottawa on May 25 and a two-day programme in Toronto from May 26 to 27. The visit carries forward the mandate given by the Prime Ministers of India and Canada during Prime Minister Mark Carney’s visit to India in March 2026, and seeks to impart renewed momentum to bilateral engagement across trade, investment, energy, technology, and people-to-people ties. A central focus of the visit is the advancement of India-Canada Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreement (CEPA) negotiations. The Terms of Reference were signed during Prime Minister Carney’s visit to India in March 2026. The first round of negotiations was conducted virtually in March to expand

SBI Staff Strike Deferred, Banking Services To Continue Uninterrupted

New Delhi, 24/5: State Bank of India (SBI) on Friday announced that the two-day nationwide strike proposed by the All India State Bank of India Staff Federation (AISBISF) for May 25 and 26 has been deferred following discussions between employee representatives and the bank’s management, ensuring uninterrupted banking operations across the country. In a customer advisory, the country’s largest public sector bank informed customers that all branches and banking services would function normally during the scheduled strike period. “This is to advise our esteemed customers that the proposed strike by the All India State Bank of India Staff Federation (AISBISF) on 25th and 26th May 2026 has been deferred. All our branches will function normally and provide all regular banking services,” SBI said in its statement. The strike had been called by the employees’ federation over a range of issues, including staff shortages, outsourcing of permanent jobs, pension-related concerns and wage disparities. The union had alleged that several long-pending employee grievances remained unresolved and accused the management of weakening worker protections. AISBISF had submitted a 16-point charter of demands seeking recruitment of messengers and armed guards, filling vacant positions across branches, halting outsourcing of regular jobs and introducing greater flexibility under the National Pension System (NPS). The federation had also demanded inter-circle transfer options for employees recruited after 2019 and a review of the existing career progression framework. The union had expressed concerns over declining workforce strength and increasing workload on employees, while highlighting security risks arising from shortages of armed guards at branches. It had further alleged disparities in wage revisions between officers and workmen despite industry-wide settlement agreements.

Aishwarya Rai Bachchan brings romantic elegance to Cannes 2026 in baby pink cape gown

Aishwarya Rai Bachchan delivered another memorable fashion moment at the 79th Cannes Film Festival as she attended L'Oreal Paris' annual "Lights On Women's Worth" gala in a romantic blush pink ensemble by Sophie Couture. Appearing on the French Riviera, the Cannes veteran embraced soft glamour in a custom baby pink gown featuring a heart-shaped fitted silk silhouette paired with a flowing chiffon cape and embellished floral detailing. Celebrity stylist Mohit Rai shared glimpses of the appearance on Instagram and captioned it: "GIVING FABULOUS FEMININE @AISHWARYARAIBACHCHAN_ARB IN @SOPHIECOUTURE". The couture creation featured a strapless corseted bodice crafted with delicate Fortuny pleating and asymmetrical ruching designed to accentuate the waistline. Swarovski-crystal floral applique in shades of rose gold, copper and deep mauve cascaded elegantly from the bodice to the hips, adding texture and dimension to the pastel-toned outfit. The dramatic gown was completed with a heavily draped satin-silk crepe skirt and a sheer floor-length chiffon cape that extended into a soft trailing train, creating a sweeping red-carpet effect. Keeping the styling understated, Mohit Rai avoided a statement necklace to maintain focus on the intricate detailing of the gown. The actor accessorised the look with statement rings and delicate diamond drop earrings, complemented by her signature voluminous side-parted auburn waves. Her beauty look featured a muted rose-pink lip, matte base and classic winged eyeliner that matched the soft pastel palette of the ensemble. The appearance marks Aishwarya Rai Bachchan's 24th year at Cannes, further reinforcing her long-standing association with the global film festival and L'Oreal Paris. The blush pink appearance came shortly after her dramatic "Luminara" look earlier during the festival, designed by Indian couturier Amit Aggarwal. The deep sapphire-blue sculptural gown explored the idea of light in motion through architectural construction and crystal embellishments developed over more than 1,500 hours of handwork. Speaking about the collaboration, Amit Aggarwal said, "Aishwarya has always approached Cannes with a strong sense of individuality and evolution. With Luminara, Mohit and I wanted to create something that felt less like a garment and more like an energy field around her. The piece explores the idea of light as strength, movement, and transformation, while honouring the extraordinary radiance she has carried through decades on the global stage," in a press note.
